A WISE DECISION.

The railroad wage controversy which, after repeated postponement, seemed to be being hastened to a crisis by the approaching return of the roads to private ownership, has again been slowed down. There is every reason to believe that in accepting the president's proposals for adjustment the leaders will be approved by the membership. At any rate the danger of a labor crisis on the eve of the release from governmental control has been averted. The one problem at a time will be sufficient to test all the ability that can be brought to bear upon its solution, without being complicated by the other.

Unthinkable as a general interruption of transportation through a labor controversy ought to be, past adjustments have given no assured method of amicable settlement that promised a permanent basis of solution. The very settlements in turn started a new series of conditions that inevitably led to a repetition of the problem. This was frankly recognized all around. The new proposals, if properly understood, aim at a scientific basis of adjustment on ascertained facts and relationships, thus setting up machinery that should be of permanent value.

In these nation-wide utilities, upon which the very life of the nation depends, their uninterrupted operation is of first consequence. At the same time this operation should not ask more from those concerned in the operation, on either side, than they should reasonably be expected to give. This implies that some method of equitable adjustment must be supplied which will protect alike the interests of all three factors, the public, the companies and the employees. That is the purpose of the proposed method which appears to have been approved by the men's leaders as a fair experiment. Some such plan for rational adjustment must be found. It is impossible that the vital interests of the whole people should be left continually to the issue of opportunism.

At the moment that food relief for hungry Europe is commanding closer official attention than anything else with the possible exception of the peace treaty, two ships are about due at New York with a few thousands of tons of Danish vegetables and butter. Carrying 100 tons of foodstuffs to the one country under the sun which has enough to undertake the salvaging of human life in Central Europe is a brilliant parallel to carrying coals to Newcastle. The humor in the situation is not affected by the pretended cheerfulness in the announcement that these 5,000 tons of food will be sold in New York at less than current American prices, and will have a good effect upon living costs in the United States. Every American knows those two cargoes will be put into storage or circulation—it is all one which—and not even New Yorkers will feel any lightening of their load, leaving the rest of the country out of the relief promised.

A consignment of 5,000 tons of food might be of some service at distressed points in Europe—here it will not be even equivalent to the proverbial drop in the bucket. America does not need Danish vegetables—Europe does, if the stories coming here are true. There are millions and millions of tons of foods in the United States in excess of actual needs, and if that accumulation cannot be utilized as a force for relief from excessive prices the trifling addition of 5,000 tons of Danish vegetables will not even be given a nod of recognition. What is surprising is that this shipment was sent to the United States instead of going into hungry stomachs in Europe.

The steadily growing number of deaths ascribed to the eating of preserved ripe olives ought to be an effective warning, but there are persons who don't read newspapers and others who are always ready to take chances.

LIFE.
Life is a blend of the good and the bad, A bit of the glad and a bit of the sad, A pinch of contentment, a time of unrest, A dash of the worst and a lot of the best; A little of failure, a little of luck, A bit of disaster and plenty of pluck, And who would live long must be willing to know, Winter and summer and sunshine and snow.

Life is a mixture of laughter and tears, Hope and despair are a part of the years; Some one is born and then somebody dies, Some one is foolish and some one is wise; Some one is false to us, some one is true, Now it is play and then tasks we must do; Who grows to manhood must learn how to take Joy with its laughter and care with its ache.

Life is a blend of the good and the ill, And we must bear what shall come by His Will; There must come tears to the brightest of eyes, Care visits the rich and the strong and the wise; No one escapes when the rain peters down, Today you may smile, but tomorrow may frown; So stand to your portion of sorrow and strife, And know that it's all in the battle called Life.

Pay of Teachers

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Washington, Feb. 19.—That the American school system is in danger of literally going to pieces, if the pay of teachers is not raised substantially, is the opinion of the best educators all over the country.

Teachers as a class are thoroughly disgusted with making over old clothes, and living in third floor hall bedrooms, while they wait for the country to wake up and pay their teachers what they are worth. They are too proud to strike. The only way out of an impossible situation, they find, is quietly to give their chosen profession, and that is what the best teachers in the country are doing by thousands every year.

One New York city has 1,000 rural schools are closed for want of teachers, and this condition is repeated in other states. The nation's teaching army of 450,000 lost 145,000 members last year, most of those who resigned being experienced teachers, the kind from which schools like to train—some without even high school diplomas.

People Do Not Understand.
"The public do not understand," says Ernest L. Thurston, superintendent of the public schools of Washington, "do not understand how vitally they are concerned in this school problem. The other night, when I was speaking before a body of citizens, I asked them if they realized that the school system will be taught less well next year, and the year after that, and if they understood that they were thus endangering the future of their children."

In the high schools unless something is done to attract competent men and women back to the schools, the situation will be evened. Before the meeting was over they were alive to the personal side of the proposition. They began to see that adequate pay for teachers was a desirable thing from the standpoint of the citizen and taxpayer.

The school teacher probably sees more of the child during its active waking hours than its mother does, and she has nearly as great an influence on its character and ideals. So that if teachers anywhere are not tomorrow are to be taught by young girls who carelessly take up teaching outside the school and something like that, the nation's future will be in jeopardy.

Where the legislators stand, on the matter of teachers' pay, it is not easy to prophesy. So far, no great champion of the teachers has arisen to defend their rights in the present congress. The mind of congress is divided between a vague understanding that something ought to be done and the well defined ideas of economy. The result, probably, will be a compromise between the $1,500 minimum which the teachers ask and the present pay scale that is wrecking the morale of the schools.

The action of congress on this bill will set an example for the states and will have somewhat the effect of a supreme court decision on other bodies that consider advances for teachers. The teachers are not meeting the demands of the Washington teachers the shortage will grow more and more acute, until at the end of the year the schools will be unable to bring the schools back to any semblance of the old time efficiency.

Teachers want recognition for the teachers a living wage, Mr. Thurston believes, but the country must at least give proper recognition to a profession that is the foundation of national life. Raising the teacher to the pay of an elevator boy or a lunch room waitress might have relieved the difficulty once. Now this situation has gone so far that the best teachers see no future in their work and are held in the service or called back to it only by much larger increases than have hitherto been offered. No one can blame the teachers for leaving up what every one knows is a hard life and a ridiculously poorly paid one. The stories of teachers' pay are everywhere known, unless, perhaps, the ministry.

While the palms are small wash the foliage occasionally with soap suds made from a good soap. Immediately follow this with a thorough rinsing. When too large for this, spray the tops frequently with clear water.

ADMINISTRATION IS BLAMED BY RANDALL FOR FARM HELP LACK

Shortage of farm labor in Rock county as well as other parts of the country should be charged in part to the present administration, says Clifford E. Randall, congressman for the First Wisconsin district, commenting on the recent statement of R. T. Glasco that unless the farmers of this county get 500 farm hands for their spring work production may be severely handicapped and even voluntarily curbed by the farmers.

High wages in the industries, the ban on immigration, and the absorption of farm hands by factories that are working full blast are given as some of the causes of the present situation by the congressman.

"In my judgment there is nothing that can be done either in the form of passing legislation or otherwise that will materially assist the Rock county farmers," says Mr. Randall. "There is a shortage of labor both in the city and on the farm. There are many reasons for this."

"In the first place, high wages paid by and with the consent of the government in the war industries have brought a large number of people to the cities. This should in part be charged to the present administration. Many of the fellows who entered the war, have taken up employment in the cities since their return, due to prevailing high wages."

"Secondly, there is a restriction on immigration to this country has been interrupted during the period of the war, and this country has been helped in the employment of this kind. Until immigration catches up there is bound to be a dearth of labor both in the city and on the farm."

"Thirdly, every manufacturing concern in the country is working full blast and this has caused the absorption of a large number of men who would otherwise go out on the farms. What is true of Rock county, is true all over the United States. The immigration commission is considering at the present time the request of Texas and other southern states that the restriction upon Mexican immigration be removed here and there are some of the things that underlie present conditions. Just now I can see no material help."

Mrs. J. S. Bennett took the topic of Shantung, showing how claim to this province was made by Japan as spoils from the world war. Japan's Far-Eastern dream was also touched upon, and the hoped for domination of north China was outlined. The subject proved so interesting that it was decided to continue the discussion to the next meeting.

PROPOSE TO ENLARGE 'FORWARD JANESVILLE'

Plans for enlarging the monthly publication of the Chamber of Commerce, "Forward Janesville," from a four-page pamphlet to a 32-page paper will be placed before business men at a smoker to be held at the Elks lodge at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening. All men interested in the project have been asked to attend.

The purpose of making the publication larger is to further advertise Janesville throughout the country. The present circulation of 800 would be increased to 1600, according to the plans. Besides giving articles on the advantages of Janesville, accounts of the growth of the city, stories of improvements to be made, it would contain a business directory of the members of the chamber. Local men would be requested to write for the publication, which is an impossibility now with the present small issue—while outside authorities would be requested to contribute a larger organ would also permit the use of illustrations.

Another advantage of the bigger "Forward Janesville," the impression which it would make in other cities. The present publication is on the exchange list with 300 other cities throughout the country and with places in Canada. A greater paper, it is stated, would better illustrate the progress being made here and attract other industries and individuals to the city.

The plan is to distribute the copies free in the city and throughout the country.

EUROPEAN FOOD DRAFTS AVAILABLE

The American relief administration has perfected plans by which foodstuffs to be made from its warehouses in Europe. The administration carries stocks of staple foods and condensed milk at central depots at Hamburg, Warsaw, Vienna, Prague, and Budapest. Previous to this new plan, packages of food were sent and those that did reach their destination were few in number. The American relief administration now has a plan which provides for the purchase in this country of what is called a food draft. These drafts are issued for the amounts of 10 and 50 dollars and can be secured at any bank in Janesville.

The purchaser of the draft sends it to his relatives or friends in Europe and the recipient may then get food as follows: Class A $10—24 1/2 lbs. flour; 10 lbs. beans; 5 lbs. bacon; 2 1/2 cans milk; 2 1/2 lbs. sugar; 50 lbs. corn; 10 lbs. beef; 15 lbs. lard; 12 lbs. corned beef; 48 cans milk. C $10—24 1/2 lbs. flour; 12 cans milk. D $50—140 lbs. flour; 60 lbs. beans; 45 lbs. corn seed oil; 48 cans milk.

The plan is recommended by Governor E. L. Phillips, and by Magnus Swenson, head of Mission American Relief Administration.

"TEA FOR THREE" IS SPARKLING COMEDY

An unique and sparkling comedy, "Tea for Three," presented last evening at the Myers theater by the most able cast which has played in Janesville in many months. It was an evening of real comedy, the high standard of all Selwyn productions and was really deserving of better support than it received last evening. A small audience gave the excellent cast headed by Norman Hackett, a like-warm response.

When the play, it would be difficult to place either Mildred Evans who played the wife and Hayden Stevenson the husband, far below him in acting.

That the play was almost entirely carried off by their people was not the only reason why the three happen to make the eternal triangle. A clever solution of the triangle was finally concluded in the last act which resulted in continuing the tea for three couples; here friend husband, the conventional strictly business man.

The friends of the extremely different type from friend husband and the wife who understood them both.

An attractive settings coupled with the gowns displayed by Miss Evans added to the favor of the play.

TRACTORS AND PLOWS IN PRIORITY CLASS

Samson Tractor company officials are interested in the latest order of R. H. Alston, railway and railroad regional director, which places farm machinery in the priority class of shipments. Emphasizing the need of early deliveries of tractors, plows, etc., he says exceptions should be made for them in case local embargoes are necessary.

The order received by local railroad officials follows: "Your attention is directed to necessity for giving priority of attention to furnishing cars for and movement of farm machinery."

"It should be made duty of all officers and agents to keep closely in touch with farm machinery situation, and do everything possible to furnish cars and provide prompt movement through to destination, so there will be no failure to have this machinery distributed in time for opening of spring work."

"Should it be necessary to issue embargoes locally for any reason, an exception should be made for farm machinery."

ALKALI IN SOAP BAD FOR THE HAIR

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.
The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mild coconut oil, which is pure and gentle, and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.
One or two teapoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine, silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get multifold coconut oil at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Weak, Thin, Nervous People Should Take Bitro-Phosphate

What It Is And How It Increases Weight, Strength and Vigor.
Judging from the countless preparations and medicines which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms and legs, and giving healthy, happy and active lives, there are really thousands of men and women who are thin and weak, and who are often due to nervousness. Our bodies need more phosphate than they contain in nature. Bitro-Phosphate claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known as Bitro-Phosphate. Bitro-Phosphate, which is inorganic and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.
By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphate food element, Bitro-Phosphate should produce a wonderful transformation in the appearance, the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.
Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear. Dull eyes, listless, pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.
CAUTION.—While Bitro-Phosphate is unexcelled for the relief of nervousness, general debility, etc., those taking it who do not get results should consult a doctor for extra care in selecting a trustworthy agent.

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

You will know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pinkish, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

The opportunity to play on the local nine and combine athletics with chemistry is a method which "Slim" considers ideal, so good-bye majors.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like your advice concerning my gentle friend, who thinks the world of me, but still I do not understand him. He was to come up to see me one evening or in the afternoon. My sister who is fifteen years old went downtown to get tickets for the evening show for herself and some friends. She met him and talked to him for a while. Then she said she was cold and would go. He then asked her to go to the show with him.

I have been sick for quite a while, but not sick enough to be in bed. He knew it, because I did not work. He came in the evening and acted very queer. I asked him what the matter was and he said it was nothing. He had told my sister not to tell me anything concerning the matter. Would you tell me the matter? Would you tell me the matter?

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

To cause the suspense of waiting for Jim's letter I took a long ride on top of the bus this afternoon. The sunshine, the rush of traffic, the surging crowds, the shop windows, helped to create for me a temporary "out" of my mind.

How oddly remote the people in the street seem to us when we are in trouble. Everybody looks happy. We wonder if anybody in the world is so burdened as we. When a kind face passes us—perhaps with a flash of interest in the eyes—we feel like rushing up, telling our story, begging for a friendly hand, a sympathetic word. But the face passes and we are alone again with our misery.

While I was busy with these reflections two young people climbed to the bus top and took the seat just in front of me. The seats are narrow, yet there were several vacant inches at the outside after the lad had snuggled next to the girl of his dream.

They were so obviously lovers, intoxicated with hope and springtime that the passengers smiled and exchanged glances of indulgent understanding.

"Lucky, Argie," breathed the boy when he had put his two arms into the conductor's relentless sure register. "I got it! The job will pay twelve to start off with. If I make good—and I know I will, Argie—I'll be gettin' fifteen bucks a week a year from now. We can easy do it!"

"Yeah," the girl hesitated, evidently making mental calculations. "Yeah, but there's Sam to take care of. It cost me $8 every week for the treatment and medicines. Still, maybe we could manage it if I could get the flowers to make at home. Mittenstein promised he'd let me have six dozen boxes a week along the season lasts. That'd be $7 any how, maybe more."

"But you ain't countin' me mottin' up the lad," she said, but she urged the lad. "She's old, but

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl twenty years of age. I loved a man twenty-nine years old when I was eighteen, and at that time my people objected on account of my youth. He went away to France and the consequence is we have drifted apart.

I always have loved him and myself continually thinking of and comparing him with my new friends. They always fall short and this almost breaks my heart. I received just a friendly letter from him not long ago, telling me of his engagement. I answered, wishing him happiness.

I have had proposals lately and find I love neither and at the present am engaged to a man whom I have always known. He is still in college and we are not to marry until he has a start in life. He tells me he loves me dearly, but I only love him as a brother.

Would you marry the one I am engaged to or would you wait and see if there is another who loved you as first one you loved with all your soul?

I have regretted one thousand times that I did not marry the one I sincerely love and have decided that my parents shall never again influence me as to the one I shall marry.

Break your engagement now and wait for a real love. It is not honorable to remain engaged while you wait for another love to appear. You are very young and will surely find happiness later. I believe that sometime you will thank your parents for keeping you free so that you could marry the "only" man. Keep your faith that he is coming and be loyal to him while you wait. If you do not love him you do not love him.

She can help on the flower work. She's used to workin' Argie, and when she's with us in the new room it'll be like heaven to her. She'll do more work than she ever done. She ain't much trouble to take care of. She gets around real fast in the wheel chair. She'll help you with the cookin', too, Argie.

"Yeah," the girl smiled a smile that went to the core of my heart. She looked straight into the eyes of her eager sweetheart, seeing visions of a home and love and success and a chance to take better care of "Sam," whoever he was.

"The young man put his arms around her shoulder and gave her a quick little hug. "Ooooh, don't Billy," she cried, conscious for the first time that they were the subject of glances. But I guess we can manage all right."

"Say, Billy, I seen the grandest rooms in the Bronx! There's—and a kitchen! Only twelve a month, and piles and piles of sun in the kitchen! Oh, Billy, I think I'll pay the $4 deposit and take them rooms. It'd be grand for your mother—and—for Sam."

They said more, but their tones were low. "Maybe it was because they'd dropped out everything else. So that was how one little pair was managing a marriage! The was courage. There was sweetness and light and hope! There was co-operation, the essence of marriage. Teamwork, mutual give-and-take."

My own heart covered before the living reproach before me. If these humble young folk had the character to face their problems of employment, dependents, poverty, illness and what not, could not so "naive" a person as I make one sacrifice for the sake of the man whose mate and partner I am?

SIMPLE FROCK FOR EARLY SPRING WEAR

By ELOISE.

Now is the time to pick up a little one-piece frock with which to finish out the rest of the winter season or begin the spring one. Such frocks may be found on the bargain racks at least one of the women will be sure to look them over before she does her buying. If she does not want a new frock for spring she will at least want one for next winter and she will show great foresight if she buys one now at a reduced price and carefully saves it for the future.

This little model for street wear in milder weather is a copy of an expensive imported Puritan frock. It is somewhat of a contrast to the usual run of striking and during Paris modes in its neatness, simplicity and conservative style. It is fashioned of blue gabardine or rather straight loose lines. Black satin braid trims it and a narrow gold frog effect which fastens the belt in the front. The short sleeves and fullness over the hips are the features which mark it as one of the newer frocks.

Stevens Point—Mrs. Edward J. Piffner, wife of a prominent local lumberman and former president of the Citizens National bank, died at her home in this city Monday evening. She was taken with influenza last week, and pneumonia following a few days later. Mrs. Piffner was the oldest daughter of James Meenan, now a resident of Milwaukee. A husband, two sons and a daughter survive.

Menasha—Forty children at the outset will be accommodated in Neenah's fresh air school, which will open under the supervision of the school board in about two weeks. The school will be in the city hall auditorium.

THE HIGHBLOW BABY
marriage is a mere ceremonial form, and that free love is more suited to the modern status of womanhood? Certainly.

Why marry? It is so old-fashioned! I commend these suggestions to some of our so-called higher educational centers. Babies are a vulgar subject. What ever else may be deemed fit to teach our daughters in colleges, for good and for evil, should not teach them anything about motherhood and the care of children.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Ment for the King.
My baby is 16 months old and I have been told I should give him lime water. How much should I give? Should I give lime water? (Mrs. K.)

ANSWER—Lime water is not necessary unless for some particular condition. Usually an ounce is given with each bottle of milk. A baby should be given fresh meat broths (chicken, beef, mutton) beginning at about the eighth month. By the time he has a few teeth he should be given a little of the tender meat itself, and these things should be given regularly three or four times a week.

Scrofula.
ANSWER—Scrofula was the name given to tuberculosis of lymph nodes of skin or of bone in old times before the nature of the disease was known. Tuberculosis is the most curable of all serious chronic diseases. There is no specific cure. The first step in the cure is the regular care and supervision of a physician throughout. The chief cause of scrofula is a little of the tender meat itself, and these things should be given regularly three or four times a week.

LUTTER'S CORNERS

(By Gazette Correspondent.)
Lutter's Corners, Feb. 17.—Luzerne Stevens passed away at his home here Saturday of heart failure. He had been in poor health for many weeks and gradually failed in strength until the end came. Mr. Stevens came to Wisconsin from New York when a young man. He was a member of the Thirtieth Wisconsin regiment of the Civil war. Jan. 1, 1870, he married Miss Josephine Hull, and settled on the farm here. Two children were born to them, May, Mrs. E. Crooked Trails and Straight

By William MacLeod Rains
Copyright, by W. W. Dillingham Company

"Darned if I've got a cigar, Sam, you're young and nimble. Go buy me one at the counter. The counter was away on the instant."

Curly's hand came out of his pocket. In it was a paper. Quickly he shook the contents of the paper into the steaming cup of coffee and stirred the liquid with a spoon.

Sam brought back the cigar and drank his coffee. Without any unnecessary delay they returned to the room. When the party reached the room the boy was getting drowsy. He rubbed his eyes, yawned and slumped down. His lids waved, shut, jerked open again, and closed slowly.

"Wake me up only when I'm for train," said Curly, and he was sound asleep.

"They took off his boots and settled him comfortably in a chair. Curly took a black mask big enough to cover his whole face. The registered letter could not be found and they decided the matter was closed for the night. The sight of the mask had given

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be dependent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kitchener's Swamp-Root, by that Dr. Kitchener, the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kitchener, the master physician, N. Curly an idea. He was about the same build as Sam. Why not go in his place? It would be worth doing just to catch sight of Soapy's face when he took the mask off after the robbers had been captured. "What the use?" Davis protested. "It's an unnecessary risk. They might shoot you in place of Sam." "I'll look after myself. I don't worry about that. Before the time for getting rid of Sam comes Mr. Soapy and his bunch will be prisoners." They agreed it was a risk, but they were set and could not be moved. He dressed in young Cullison's clothes and with Maloney took the express to 0:57. Davis remained to guard Sam. Curly's watch showed 10:17 when the wheels began to grind from the setting of the air brakes. He was in the last sleep. Black in the day coach near the front. They had agreed that Dick was to drop off as soon as the train slowed down enough to make it safe, whereas Curly would go on and play Sam's part until the proper time.

The train almost slid to a halt from the pressure of the hard-rammed wheels. A volley of shots rang out. Curly slipped the mask over his face and ran with a cowering look in his eyes. He had been sitting at the end of the car, so that nobody noticed him until his voice rang out with a crisp ring.

"Stand up! Don't anybody move!" An earthquake shock could not have alarmed the passengers more. The train was stopped completely from the faces of most of them. "Reach for the roof. Come, punch a hole in the sky!" To do that they must have used a couple of shots through the ceiling. That was enough. Hands went up without any argument, and a couple of minutes later the train was moving again.

Presently Cranston herded the passengers in from the forward coaches. While they were most of the train crew.

"We're cutting off the express car and going forward to Dobe Wells with it. The train will be stopped at the safe unimpeded." And Bill explained. "You heard the passengers here from the outside till you hear the train stop. Now it's all over."

"Fine! Curly was to stand out body in the moonlight and let the train run forward to get aboard. Nothing could have been simpler. If he had not happened to have had inside information, he would have been a good deal more nervous."

He had to think quickly for the plans of him and his friends had been deranged. They had reckoned on the express car being pulled off the spot. This would have given Cullison time to reach the scene of action. Now they would go late. Unless Curly could stop it, the holdup would go through according to the program of Soapy and not his enemies.

The decision of Planard was instantaneous. He slid down beside the track into the long grass. Whipping up one of his revolvers, he fired in answer to the first shot his revolver cracked twice. Simultaneously, he let out a cry of pain, wringing back and crossed the track in the darkness. As he crunched down close to the wheels of the engine, he saw some one running back on the other side.

"What's up, Sam? You hit?" He could hear Blackwell whisper. "No answer," he heard. He paroled himself, standing close to the car for fear of being hit himself and he dared not move.

"Sam," he called again; then, "He's sure got hit."

That was all Curly wanted to know. Softly he padded forward, keeping as low as he could till he reached the empty sleepers. Blackwell was just uncoupling the express car when Curly dived under it and reached close to the trucks. A beam where he lay he could almost have reached out and touched Soapy standing by the door.

"What about the kid?" Stone asked. "Blackwell as the latter came up. They got him. Did you hear him yell?"

"Yes, but did they put him out of business?" See his body?"

Blackwell had no intention of going back into the car and he was satisfied for his part he was satisfied. He lied.

"Yep. Blew the top of his head off."

Before many minutes the engine began to slow down. The wheels had hardly stopped moving when Curly crept out, ploved through the sand, up the rubble, under the engine and took a draw where a bunch of scrub oaks offered cover.

"Oh, it's you, Sam. Everything all right?"

Dinner Stories

Willie came up to his mother with an expression of anxiety on his face. "Ma," he asked, "if a poor little boy was to come to the back door and ask you for something to eat, would you give him that piece of apple pie that was left over from dinner?"

"Yes, Willie, of course, I would!" said the mother gently.

"All right," he said, "just wait a minute till I run round to the back door."

A certain captain in the army was summoned to answer a charge of assault preferred against him by a sentry. The officer had no recollection of it. The sentry declared the officer was intoxicated.

Among those questioned was an Irishman, who protested vigorously that the allegation of the sentry was a slander—that he was sure the captain was perfectly sober.

"Why are you so sure that Captain Blank was sober that evening?" he was asked. "Did he speak to you upon his return to his quarters?"

"He did, sir."

"What did he say?"

"He told me to be sure and call him early in the morning, sir."

"And did the captain say why he wished to be called early?"

"Yes, sir. He said he was going to be Queen of the May, sir," responded the orderly with convincing gravity.

"Well, why don't you say something?" asked the angry woman after her long tirade.

"My dear, rolled her husband, meekly, "nothing remains to be said."

FORMS CLOSE ONE DAY IN AD-

Cards Sound Out A. A. U.--Samson Signs Pitcher

LAKOTAS PROTEST BEING KEPT FROM BIG TOURNAMENT

(BY FRANK SINGLIER)
Upon receipt of information that Green Bay and New London will enter the Central Amateur Athletic Union basketball tournament to be held at the Fourth Regiment armory in Chicago on March 4, 5 and 6, the management of the Lakotas Cardinals of this city has written to the union asking for an application for entry. The Cardinals in this season, the Cards, last year's champions of the union, were informed that they were barred from playing this year because of "professionalism."

The action of the Cards at this time is not exactly in the form of a protest, but more of a feeling as to what position the Union officials will take. The Lakotas have understood that all Wisconsin teams would be invited in this case, and so that when they heard that the northern teams were entered the natural course now is to inquire why the Cards and the Beloit Braves, also, are refused admittance. Know No Good Reason.

Previously, the management of the Cardinals told the writer that they knew no good reason why the local live should be passed over declaring that "everyone knows that the A. A. U. tournament at Chicago has always been run by Chicago people who want Chicago to win."

If the Cardinals' complaint is refused, an application and not permitted to enter, the Cards are ready to show that there are teams lined up for the tournament that are just as able to compete as professional teams as the Cardinals. One of these especially is the Illinois Athletic club of Chicago.

NEWSIES TAKE GYM WORK TONIGHT

Gym work for the newsies of the city will be re-opened under the direction of W. Porter Craig, physical director of the city, tonight. The basketball game will be played between Squad A and Squad B, and another between Squads C and D. A gun relay will be a feature with two other novelty relays. Play will start at 6:30.

The standings of all the teams will start again on an equal basis. Redistribution of the team members will be made to put competition more on an equal basis. Points will be counted as follows: 10 points for each team won; five points for each relay won; five points for first place in each relay; three points for second place; one point for third place; and one point for each member on a team who is present.

WAKES AT OWN FUNERAL

Newton, N. B.—"What's coming off around here?" asked Mrs. M. E. Mahoney, 80 years old, when she saw her husband in the undertaker's parlor preparing the burial. The funeral has been indefinitely postponed.

The Loot is getting wabbly. With his dinky little neck, He can hear the sergeant bawling, But he can't dare look back. But we ain't saying nothing Since we got the order "route," Too dog-dead for even wounding If we'll ever hear "fall out."

My damn rifle and my helmet Keep on getting in the way. And my brains are numb and dopey Try'n to cuss and try'n to pray. My throat's as dry as sawdust. And my right arm's gone to sleep. And the pack-strap on my shoulder Cuts a slit two inches deep.

I just lift one foot and shove it And it hits most any place. Then I lift and shove the other. I keep from falling on my face. If the guide should charge the line I'll be damned if I could stop. If you pushed me with a feather—Well, I'd just curl up and drop.

And I know damn well there's stragglers. That'll ride up on a truck—Guess if you ain't born a quitter, You're just simply outa luck. I suppose we'll keep on going. But? The Skipper's faced about? Well—I'm dreaming—in the daisies. You don't need to say—"fall out!"

WHITEWATER FAN WRITES OF MONROE

By BUCK.

A fan at Whitewater does not think that Monroe high school looks good to win the Whitewater tournament. He writes the following to the sporting editor of the Gazette:

"After reading the article in your paper of Tuesday, entitled, 'Monroe Looks Good to Win Whitewater Basketball Meet,' I feel a little explanation is due.

"Whitewater Commercial high school should not be confused with the Whitewater City high school. The Commercial high school is a part of the State normal.

"Can Always Beat Monroe.

"The Commercial H. S. has defeated Milton, Milton Junction, Delavan, and lost to Oregon at Oregon on a night poor floor and with poor lighting facilities. In the game with Monroe, it must be remembered that Whitewater's star center was out with a sprained ankle. He has been averaging five baskets a game. So we feel that C. H. S. can beat Monroe at any time on a neutral regulation floor.

"On last Saturday, the day after the Monroe game, the C. H. S. lost to Racine by a score of 25-21. Racine showed much better team work and basket shooting than did Monroe.

"Further, the C. H. S. cannot enter the Whitewater meet as they are connected with the school and must play on a neutral floor. They will probably enter at Milwaukee.

"Sincerely,
"C."

(By Gazette Correspondent)
Milton, Feb. 19.—Milton college plays Beloit college on the court of the local college gymnasium tonight. Beloit has already trimmed Milton by a 20-10 victory. The local lineup has been worked until it is now much stronger until it is about on an even basis with Beloit's.

Beloit, an experienced referee of Milwaukee, will handle the game. To benefit Beloit rosters, the contest will start at 7:30 so they may return early.
